Partial Canvass Yields $2,000 Towards Quota in Annual Red Cross Drive

Summer-Like Weather Against Workers Who Find Many People Away.

WILL GO ON TO NOV. 30

Excellent Showing Made by Teams
Composed of Hosts of the Kirmals Club; They Collect $1,041.50 of
The Total Reported to Headquarters

The Red Cross Roll Call in Connellsville met with encouraging success in Connellsville Sunday despite the fact that fair weather resulted in about 50 per cent of the residents in the territory visiting being away for the afternoon. The campaign committee has requested the workers to keep up the drive until November 30, during which time calls will be made at homes where the occupants were absent.

The total collected is estimated at approximately $2,000. All the teams reported at the Baltimore & Ohio Y. M. C. A. with the exception of one. There was considerable enthusiasm displayed among the canvassers, about 50 of whom gathered at the Y. M. C. A. at 12 o'clock. While some workers covered their territories in a few hours, others did not complete the district at all.

In the Seventh Ward it was reported that about half the people were away from home. In all others the absence averaged from 30 to 50 per cent.

J. W. O. Adrian, chairman of the supplies committee, will replenish the stock of any worker. Window cards, buttons or other material may be secured by calling at the office of the Connellsville Steam Laundry. Mr. Adrian kept workers supplied yesterday as they ran out.

Chairman E. T. Norton announced today that anyone missed Sunday who wished voluntarily to enroll may do so by seeing him at the First National Bank, James C. Long at the Union National or J. L. Kurtz at the Citizens National. Any team captain will also enroll members.

Connellsville Lodge No. 801, B. P. O. Elks, contributed through E. D. Barnhart, Elks' ruler.

There were less women workers available than had been anticipated, a number being unavoidably detained. They showed their interest, however, by notifying the chairman they could not be present and giving good reasons. The women who did work made up in earnestness what they lacked in numbers.

There was little use for the 100 per cent stickers, the workers said. At every home where a contribution was secured a window card was left. This was placed in the window of the house and buttons were supplied the persons who served.

The Connellsville Kiwanis Club made an enviable record in the canvass yesterday. Nearly 60 members reported for duty at the Y. M. C. A., being assigned to three teams, captained by F. M. Richey, P. R. Welmer and W. W. Glofferty. The returns made up to last night indicate that the team headed by F. M. Richey, canvassing the Fifth Ward, won the interclub contest over the combined teams of P. R. Welmer in the Fourth Ward and W. W. Glofferty in Snydertown.

Of the $3,111.50 reported last week, the Kiwanis garnered $1,041.50, divided as follows: Richey's team, $674.00; Welmer's team, $379.00; Glofferty's team, $357.50. Owing to the fact that it was conceded that the returns from the Snydertown territory would be limited, the solicitors of that district pooled issues with the Fourth Ward team of P. R. Welmer. When the final figures are announced the winning team will be the guests of the losers at a Kiwanis luncheon and the Welmer outfit has visions of fooling the Kiwanis.

This was the first attempt of the Kiwanis to canvass as an organized body and they are well satisfied with the account they gave of themselves. The Fifth Ward ranked first among all competitors, the Fourth Ward was second, and the combined Kiwanis teams collected more than half of all the subscriptions taken. In addition to the canvassers, three Kiwanians were drafted for special service. John Davis, being in charge of the South Connellsville canvassers, and J. R. McCreath and J. C. Long, being assigned to duty at headquarters receiving returns.

SPECULATION AS TO SUCCESSOR OF SENATOR NEWBERRY

By Associated Press.

DETROIT, Nov. 20.—With Governor Alex. Grovesbeck refusing to intimate what action he may take, political circles were speculating today over who will be named to succeed Senator H. Newberry whose resignation was announced in a letter to the governor yesterday.

Several names are being mentioned but with apparently no substantial basis for belief they are being considered by the governor. Among them are Charles B. Warren, ambassador to Japan and a Detroit lawyer, Mayor James C. Couzens of Detroit, William Elden Smith, whose Senate seat Senator Newberry took, and W. W. Porter, state fuel administrator.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 20.—President Harding was asked in a message today from the administrative committee of the Federal Council of Churches of Christ to recommend to Congress such special amendment of immigration law as will permit entry into this country of Greek and Armenian refugees from the scene of war in the Near East.

Pointing out that the quotas applying to both nationalities have been filled for the current year the committee urged that Greeks and Armenians now held at Ellis Island and other refuges be given admission for a limited time.

Activities of the Klan in Louisiana Before President

By Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 20.—The state authorities of Louisiana appear at this time to be fully capable of handling any situation within their jurisdiction growing out of activities of a secret or other agencies. It was declared in a statement issued at the White House today after a conference on the subject between President Harding, Attorney General Daugherty, Governor Parker of Louisiana and Attorney General Clegg of that state.

In view of the sufficiency of the state authority, the White House statement said:

There is nothing at this time for the Federal government to do except to give assurance to the state authorities that wherever federal interests are involved the authorities are ready to extend full cooperation.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 20.—Activities of the Ku Klux Klan formed the subject of a White House conference today of President Harding, Attorney General Daugherty and Governor Parker of Louisiana. The conference was at the request of the governor who seeks federal cooperation in curbing alleged interstate operations of the Klan.

Before going to the White House the governor and his attorney general had a long conference with William J. Burns, chief of the bureau of investigation of the Department of Justice. It was understood they laid before Mr. Burns information concerning the reported influence exerted by the Klan among county and other officers in their state.

SPECIAL SESSION OF CONGRESS MEETS AT PRESIDENT'S CALL

Both Bodies Adjourn After Brief Formalities in Respect to Dead.

MRS. FELTON IS PRESENT

By Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 20.—Congress convened at noon today for the special session of two weeks called by President Harding for consideration of the Administration's ship subsidy bill upon which he is expected to address a joint session tomorrow.

In both Senate and House the grave beginning the new session dropped a few minutes after 12 o'clock and then in both chambers there followed the usual formalities which attend the turning over of a new page in congressional history. The program on both sides was so arranged as to permit adjournment after the ceremonies usually tomorrow as a mark of respect for the late Senator Watson of Georgia and the late Representative Nolan of California.

The Senate was in session only 13 minutes, adjourning without giving an opportunity to Mrs. W. H. Felton of Georgia, or any other new senators; to take the oath of office. Mrs. Felton was given an ovation by the gallery.

She waited in vain for an hour and a half in the Senate chamber to learn whether Senate leaders would permit her to take her seat as the first woman senator in view of the recent election of Walter George as her successor. After much scratching of heads over the problem the Senate managers decided to let a decision go over until tomorrow.

From a place in the rear of the seats on the Democratic side of the chamber the 87-year-old "grand old woman of Georgia" peered out through her spectacles on the opening formalities of the special session. Mrs. Felton said she would continue her efforts to be seated for a day and it was indicated that the Senate was prepared to get tomorrow. Some of the best informed leaders predicted she would not be successful.

The resignation of Senator Truman H. Newberry of Michigan, the central figure of a long and bitter Senate controversy, will become effective tomorrow. Vice-President Coudge was unable at today's brief session to present Senator Newberry's letter of resignation and the Michigan senator's name remained temporarily on the rolls.

In the House the business of getting under way after the recess took considerably more time but the leaders deferred any actual consideration of legislation until after the President's address tomorrow. There was the usual first day harvest of new bills and resolutions, all of which promptly went to committee and the opening session was attended also by the usual noisy outburst of welcome by the gallery to new and returning members.

Red Cross Expended More in Connellsville District Last Year Than Received in Dues

In a statement issued by the Fayette County Chapter of the Red Cross it is shown that during the past year the chapter expended in the Connellsville district $4,830.79 more than was received therefrom in the form of membership dues. The statement presents the details as follows:

"Five hundred eighty-seven dues were handled by the Connellsville branch office, of which 295 were ex-service men and 292 civilians. The September report show that 26 ex-service men's cases were handled, of which 18 were disability cases, 11 were compensation claims, four for hospital and medical treatment and two for vocational training. Thirty-four civilian cases were handled during the same month. This is an example of the class and kind of cases which are handled by the Red Cross, both in Connellsville and elsewhere.

"During the year, nearly 1,500 nursing visits were made and other forms of service were rendered.

DIPLOMATS AT LAUSANNE FOR PARLEY OPENING

Great Satisfaction Expressed That U. S. Will Have Observers.

MAY EVEN PARTICIPATE

By Associated Press.

LAUSANNE, Nov. 20.—The Near East peace conference was formally opened at 3:45 o'clock this afternoon. President Haab of Switzerland, the presiding officer of the opening session, signed the treaty at that hour and had his welcoming address to which Lord Curzon, the British foreign secretary, replied.

LAUSANNE, Nov. 20.—Switzerland, at whose capital and larger cities many international conferences have been staged, again is host for a gathering of diplomats who come to discuss one of the most important problems before the world—the problem of Turkey and the Near East.

Since the armistice convention ending hostilities between the Greeks and Turks was signed at Mudanya more than a month ago the Near East peace conference, the plenary session of which is set forth for today, has been eagerly awaited and many complex questions, among them the negotiating of a final treaty of peace between Turkey and Greece and the freedom of the Straits and fixing of the future status of Turkey are to be discussed over the conference table.

Much satisfaction was evident on all sides when it became known that the United States has designated its ambassador to Italy, its minister to Switzerland and Rear Admiral Bristol to be the representatives. Even greater became the interest when a few hours before the session was to open it was intimated the United States representatives would raise their voices whenever it was in the interest of the United States and Americans to do so.

LOGAN, W. Va., Nov. 20.—Don Chafin, sheriff of Logan county, W. Va., was removed from his home today to a Huntington hospital in a serious condition as the consequence of a bullet wound. Pirates Seize Ship; Driven Off After Battle

By Associated Press.

HONG KONG, Nov. 20.—Sixty-five Chinese buccaniers who might have stepped from an ancient log along the Spanish main traveled as passengers aboard the British steamer Sul An when she left Macao for Hong Kong yesterday afternoon. Seizing the ship a few miles out the pirates held her for 12 hours and the crew and passengers made Hong Kong today with their captors driven away, only after a fierce battle in which two were killed and several wounded, including the captain of the Sul An, a French priest and another European passenger.

State Police Make Hauls in Uniontown Raids

Whisky, gin, wine and other liquors valued at between $10,000 and $15,000 were confiscated, police say, when squads of state police conducted a cleanup on alleged speakeasies in Uniontown Saturday night.

At 10 o'clock 30 state policemen divided into squads swooped down on the alleged speakeasies simultaneously. The confiscated liquors were hauled in trucks to the courthouse, where they were stored in the basement to be used as evidence against the alleged dry law violators.

In the restaurant conducted by Paul Celcerini, in the heart of the downtown business section, police say, the raiding officers found two poker games in session in a room on the second floor. More than $1,000 was in each "pot" of the games. Eleven quarts of whisky, five quarts of wine and a small quantity of whiskey in a teapot were confiscated, police allege, along with 13 decks of cards and other gambling paraphernalia. Celcerini and 20 visitors, including three women, were arrested. The former was charged with violating the Woner Act and the visitors with visiting a gambling house.

The raiding officers made another big seizure, they say, in the restaurant conducted by Charles Ranganelli, at 24 Penn street, where, police say, 15 gallons of whiskey, five gallons of alcohol, 22 quarts of brandy, 24 quarts of wine, 21 pints of wine and 23 quarts of gin were confiscated.

Water Shortage More Acute in Greensburg Area

Special to The Courier.

GREENSBURG, Nov. 20.—Because of the critical scarcity of water, and the urgent need for husbanding the supply still remaining in the reservoirs, industrial concerns served by the Westmoreland Water Company went on a half ration basis last week.

As a consequence the Kelly & Jones plant was shut down three out of the six days last week, and workmen are making just half time. With the approach of the Christmas season, this is creating considerable hardship among the employees. The Pennsylvania Rubber Company plant at Jeannette, with one of the largest plants in the county, is not affected. The water used by the plant in the manufacture of rubber articles and tires comes from deep wells. Only the drinking water used throughout the big concern is obtained from the Westmoreland Water Company and it is in the lack of drinking water only that the Pennsylvania Rubber Company will be pinched if the drought continues.

the body of John Goodwin, 30 years old, veteran of the World War, was found dead under an automobile on which he had been working in the garage at the home of his aunt, Mrs. Emily Hicks, at Fairchance, with a bullet wound in his breast. Near his right hand lay a revolver with one chamber empty, also some tools with which he had been working. In his pocket were other tools.

Relatives do not admit that the case is one of suicide. Mrs. Hicks made the discovery about a half hour after Goodwin had gone to the garage.

After the war Goodwin taught self and then became associated with R. L. Sharp, Fairchance funeral director. He was unmarried. He was a member of De Loma Post of The American Legion and the Veterans of Foreign Wars.

COAL OUTPUT UP TO 13 MILLION TONS IN WEEK NOVEMBER 18

Bituminous Mines Furnish
11,100,000 Tons in Their Quota.

A FURTHER GAIN IN COKE

Special to The Courier.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 20.—The weekly report of the United States Geological Survey states that the preliminary estimates on coal production during the week of November 11 as revised by later reports reflecting the curtailed output because of Election Day and Armistice Day put the total coal raised at 11,939,000 net tons. Early returns on car loadings at mines during the week of November 18 indicate 12,200,000 net tons, comprising 11,000,000 tons of soft coal and 2,000,000 tons of anthracite.

Working time in the bituminous coal fields last week counted for approximately 5.5 days and on that basis the rate of daily output was higher than in preceding weeks. The indicated rate of production this week, assuming full-time operation, shows a further increase.

Loadings of soft coal on Monday, November 13, as reported by the railroads, totaled 44,902 cars. On Tuesday loadings declined to 32,843 cars, and by Thursday had declined further to 33,175 cars.

The estimated cumulative production of bituminous coal this year to November 11, inclusive, stands at 32,668,000 tons which is 21,511,000 tons or six per cent less than in the corresponding period of 1931; 237,385,000 tons or 29 per cent less than in 1930; 777,340,000 tons or 19 per cent less than in 1929; 177,534,000 tons or 35 per cent less than in 1928; and 143,866,000 tons or 30 per cent less than in 1927.

The outstanding feature of the mine reports for the week was a gradual but general improvement in traffic conditions. Only in Somerset county, Pennsylvania, Cumberland, Piedmont, Pocahontas, Southern Appalachian, and the States of Montana and Wyoming was the coal supply not equal to that during the preceding week.

Improved transportation in the states west of the Mississippi was partly offset by increased backlogs. Many laborers practically ceased to be a factor limiting production except in Connellsville and Cumberland. The labor supply at the mines reporting in Westmoreland and Somerset counties, Pennsylvania, and Somerset, Pennsylvania, and the States of Montana and Wyoming was the coal supply not equal to that during the preceding week.

Increased production of bituminous coal during the week ended November 11 after a temporary halt in the upward trend which has marked the past few weeks. The total output estimated from reports of cars of coke loaded was 245,000 net tons, an increase over the week preceding of about 24 per cent. The improvement was general in all the eastern coke producing districts. West of the Mississippi production was maintained at about the level of the week before.

According to The Courier production in the Connellsville region increased from 164,320 net tons to 176,880 net tons. The output of this region at present is 19 per cent more than in the week ending April 1.

The cumulative output during 1932 to date stands at 6,951,000 net tons, or 78 per cent behind 1931, 69 per cent behind 1929, 57 per cent behind 1928, and 29 per cent ahead of 1927, a year of severe depression in the coke industry.

George A. Smith Declared Elected In Westmoreland

By Associated Press.

GREENSBURG, Nov. 20.—George A. Smith of Derry, Republican candidate for the Legislature in the First district of Westmoreland county, has been declared by Judges C. B. Whitten and William T. Dow, sitting as a return board, to have been elected November 7 over George B. Bryson, Democrat.

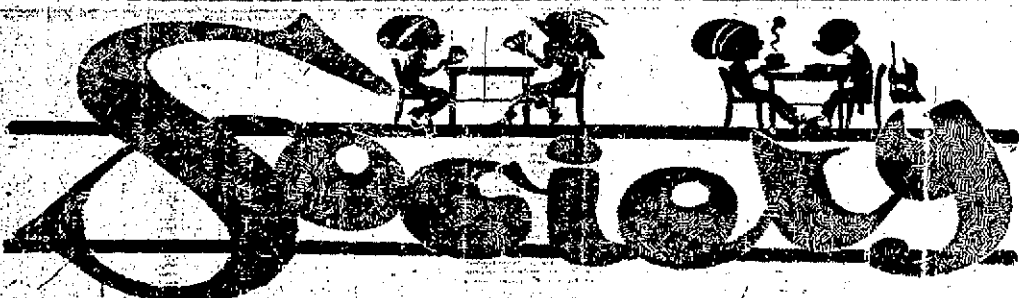

The decision was made on the grounds that the board has no authority to consolidate the vote cast for George B. Bryson on the Democratic ticket and G. B. Bryson on the Socialist ticket. The vote stood:

George A. Smith, Republican, 3,955;
George B. Bryson, Democrat, 3,521;
G. B. Bryson, Socialist, 493.
George B. Bryson has contended that the Socialist vote should have been counted for him. This would have made his total 4,014, as against 3,955 for Smith.

The decision will probably be appealed, it is said.

BETTER THAN CALOMEL

Thousands Have Discovered Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets are a Harmless Substitute

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets—the substitute for calomel—are a mild but sure laxative, and their effect on the liver is almost instantaneous. These little olive-colored tablets are the result of Dr. Edwards' determination not to treat liver and bowel complaints with calomel. The pleasant little tablets do the good that calomel does, but have no bad after effects. They don't irritate the body like strong liquids or calomel. They take hold of the trouble and quickly correct it. Why cure the liver at the expense of the teeth? Calomel sometimes plays havoc with the gums. So do strong liquids. It is best not to take calomel. Let Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets take its place.

Headaches, "dullness" and that lazy feeling come from constipation and a disordered liver. Take Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets when you feel "laid" and "heavy." They "clear" clouded brain and "perk up" the spirits. 15c and 30c.

FORMER STARS PROVE TO BE BEST COACHES

Many Crack College Players Turned Out by Old-Timers.

Veteran Professionals, With Ability to Impart Knowledge, Have No Difficulty in Finding Lucrative Coaching Jobs.

The exceptional ability of college ball players this year, as indicated in the signing of close to 500 of the stars by major and class AA minor league clubs and another 100 by the smaller minor league teams, draws attention to the field of work that many former major leaguers have entered and in which they are making a success.

Veteran professionals, with the ability to impart knowledge gained by years in the game, have no trouble finding lucrative positions as college coaches, and no one thing has done more to improve the play in college baseball than the efficient coaching now in vogue at the leading institutions.

Jack Barry, former Athletic and Red Sox star, coaches Holy Cross, and he turned out a great team as usual this season. Three or four of his players are among the big league prospects. Jeff Tesmer, former pitcher of the Giants, is at Dartmouth, where he has led the blues for several years and is becoming a fixture.

Jack Combs of the Athletics' great twirling staff sojourns at Williams college. Combs, like Barry, is one of the college men who made the jump direct to the majors and stayed. Carl Lundgren, formerly pitcher of the Cubs, has brought another "Big Ten" championship to Illinois.

Ray Fisher, veteran New Yorker, is at Michigan; Bill Coughlin, third baseman of the Tigers years ago, directs the Lafayette blues, and Jack Slatery coaches at Harvard. Hans Lobert is at West Point.

William Tager of Troy, N. Y., has been named coach of the Williams soccer team for the coming season.

The description of what happened to Georges Carpentier suggests that he is still champion of plaster of Paris.

Everett Scott, durable shortstop of the Yankees, finished the 1933 season with 339 consecutive games played to his credit.

Peter the Great, 2:07 1/4, now twenty-seven years old, surprises visitors to the Laurel Hill farm by his fine appearance.

Any baseball coach can tell you that too many young men go to college without having learned the basic principles of life-saving.

ACCOMMODATED

"Mr. Grubbs," said the brisk young man, "I am a college graduate." "Glad to hear it," replied that sedate millionaire, somewhat grudgingly. "I came in to give you the refusal of my services in some executive capacity."

"Much obliged. Good-morning." "Oh, sir?" "I am merely accepting your kind offer. Again, good-morning."

Which oats are you serving—flavorful flakes or insipid?
Do you realize how oats differ? Some grains are starved and puny. They yield insipid flakes. Some are rich and flavorful. They yield those large and luscious flakes you get in Mother's Oats. We get only ten pounds from a bushel.
Mother's Oats, despite this quality, cost you only one-half cent per dish. They cost you about one-tenth what wheat costs for the same units of nutrition. In this supreme food, so essential to the young, get the kind children love.

Tanlac Hasn't An Equal Says Hendrix

"Tanlac is the greatest medicine in the world and nobody can say anything too good for it," was the emphatic statement of Clinton J. Hendrix, 75 Palm St., Rochester, N. Y.

"About a year ago I lost my appetite and my stomach got all out of order. Everything I ate bloated me up with gas and caused constant pain in my stomach. I lost weight and strength until I just had to drive myself to get through the day's work. I was also suffering from constipation, and nearly everything else that comes from a bad stomach."

"Well, sir, Tanlac has put me in tip-top condition. My wife says she never knew me to eat better, yet nothing hurts me a particle and I feel stronger and better than before my troubles started. I never hesitate to recommend Tanlac for it certainly gives the desired results."

Tanlac is sold by all good druggists. Advertisement.

To help overcome this fear, try having no light in the room, while getting the child ready for bed. Play a little game, trying to see who can recognize the most objects in the room. The Blind Man's Eyes

Perhaps, in reflecting upon the escape and successful hiding of some notorious criminal, you have wondered if his freedom were not connived at by the very people who seemed most interested in convicting him; or, in many cases, if guilt were not fastened upon an innocent party in order to protect powerful interests. You will find these very things dealt with in this story; also you will find a romance with qualities that will strongly appeal to your heart.

MANY NEW LINES IN LATEST GOWN

Silhouette of Present Season is Elaborate in Its Many Variations.

MODES TO SUIT ALL FANCIES

Fashions for Women Who Refuse to Adopt Longer Types as Well as for Those Seeking Up-to-the-Minute Outfit.

Down in her heart the American woman who loves fashions has been longing for a change. She may rail against this statement as she will. But just the same, declares a fashion writer in the New York Times, she is buying the new silhouette with the greatest enthusiasm. All an interested spectator need do is to walk along the fashionable streets on any pleasant day to see the new silhouette in all its glory.

There are so many new lines in this silhouette that we will have to go into the thing at some length before we fully realize how interesting each one of us can look. At first a woman is anxious when she faces an entire change of her appearance. She wonders if she can ever adapt herself to the readjustment which the new clothes involve, but as she steps into the character, little by little, she finds herself charmed. A thrill enters her spirit at the prospect of finding new ways to be attractive.

In the "slips" there are many dresses for the woman who refuses to adopt the longer lines; another collection for the woman who has had only tentatively to go half way in the adoption of the newer idea, and still another collection for the one who jumps in joyfully and embraces a theory which must needs become a fact.

Now, there is this bit of advice for the woman who is embarking upon the business of acquiring a fall and winter wardrobe. The more advanced the model, provided it has all of the elements which make it becoming, the longer it will last, with the power of proving itself a satisfaction through the long seasons to follow. If a woman is too conservative, then she is always coming to the place where a dress, bought only two or three months previously, looks a little passé and out of fashion. But if she had purchased in the beginning with a little more foresight, a little more courage, and a little more desire to lead instead of to follow, she would find herself at the end of three months, still in the lead, instead of far behind. And at the end of six months or possibly a year she could have settled back comfortably with the assurance that her gown was still just right. That is one of the rules of good buying, but few women really have the courage to stand on their own and to demand of themselves that they follow the rule to the letter.

The One-Piece Dress. There is still a variety of straight, one-piece dresses which will continue in favor. This type of frock is not made so long as the fuller, flatter ones. It is longer, of course, than those which have been nearer the knees than the ankles, but it does not from any really consuming interest in fashion to want to bear the burden of coming out in full new regalia. They prefer to go more quietly about the business of changing their style, and to wait into any radical change with a little more ease.

Recently there was an exhibition of fashions for business and professional women which, though it was run from a brand new angle and for a brand new purpose, still showed many of the more recent gowns in the conservative form. There were any number of these dresses that started out to be straight and ended by having that little draped effect on the side of the skirt which most successfully does the trick of breaking in the new while carrying out a semblance of the old.

There were numerous short coats, too. These were bloused sometimes and at others left to hang loosely from the shoulders in a flare that was most effective when combined with the longer skirts. They need something of this kind to relieve their line and supply a widening of the silhouette at one point. The short fur coats at this show were particularly noticeable, and it looks as though they would enjoy a healthy season.

Brocades are as sumptuous as can be. Then, there are all the new weaves of satin and silk and crepe, each vying with the other in an attempt to be the most glorious of all evening dress fabrics. The velvet brocades are particularly fascinating. The color of a thick, soft, velvet pattern against the fineness and thinness of a chiffon background, creates an interesting quality for that material which any other finds difficult to equal.

One of the longer, fuller evening dresses is of tulle with a skirt that does everything in the way of carrying out the character of the thing it sets out to do. It has, too, many of the newer details which are going to make the evening frocks of this season. There are the little ribbon roses all strung along the waist, narrow panels of the tulle skirt. There is the long and fitted bodice and there is the broad and filmy fichu which stretches across the shoulders in the most effective way. There is, also, that little ring of ribbon roses just at the front of the waistline where the bodice and skirt are joined together, and two little bunches of the same flowers to hold the fichu in place on the tips of the shoulders.

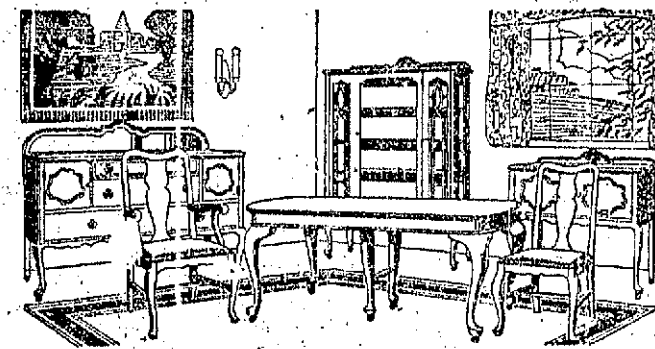

The fact is that all of the points of this gown are perfectly in harmony with the season's demands and details. They are combined in such a manner that the dress becomes one symphony of line to be worn when the occasion demands that formal gowns shall be worn. It is an excellent thing for a dancing dress, as there is no question about the management of the skirt. It takes care of itself as it flutters its long and graceful way about the floor.

Another evening dress is quite the opposite type though just as smart in its own way. They are really meant for two different types of women, one for the graceful and drooping type and the other for the more girlish face and the rounder figure.

Lengthens the Lines. The dress is particularly good for the large woman who may need something to lengthen out her lines. It has, first of all, a fitted undersleeve of metal cloth, silver in this instance, then there has been draped over this foundation a fullness of chiffon which has the effect that the more buxom woman is eternally looking for. It is very well to talk about those with little girlish figures who wear the puffy clothes and about the character and charm of them, but there are many of us who cannot attempt to go in for anything so extreme. But this frock of which we are speaking has all of the lines which are most softening and which help to bring the figure into the contour of the modern model. The girldie is low and wide and there are drapings of the chiffon falling from the sides. But the bodice is plain and held loosely over a more tightly fitting underbodice. By this means, then, the lines are subdued and the dress is given that much-to-be-desired slender appearance. Then there is a rose at the belt, which with its silver sheen is in direct contrast to the mauve of the chiffon with which the silver underdress is draped.

begin to touch these ankles. It is, in fact, about nine inches off the ground, a very good length for a skirt which is quite straight and does not boast the slightest drapery.

Another variety of simple frock is a compromise between the slim chemise dress and the extremely full one. It has a slight drapery on one side, which sort of pulls the skirt into the air at that one point and relieves the too great continuity of the long, straight effect. A great many women will like this sort of frock as their first venture into the field of the new silhouette. It will help them to get used to the new idea gradually, without making any sudden jumps to their fashion feelings. Some women are too busy and too occupied and too far removed

FRENCH LANGUAGE POPULAR SUBJECT AT LEISENRING H. S.

French is easily one of the most popular subjects taught in the Dunbar Township High School. Each year the number of students electing this course becomes larger. At present two years of work are given. Only members of the three upper classes are eligible to take the work. During the first year the students study the fundamentals of French grammar. Later they are given a simple reader to translate. In the second year their knowledge of grammar is perfected, but the greater part of the year is spent in translating standard texts, including novels, plays and short stories into English. As far as possible French conversation is used in the classes. Thus, after two years study a student of French should be able to converse with a Frenchman without much difficulty. Object lessons are taught by means of the direct method to give the pupil practice in discussing in French that which he sees before his eyes. Great interest and pleasure is afforded the students in their correspondence with the native French students who are studying English. Both groups of students, French and American, write their letters half in English and half in French. Much amusement is given to both parties as some of the letters are very amusing. Besides the culture the students obtain from this study many of them take it for another reason. Almost all colleges require a knowledge of French for college entrance.

The interest in French was greatly increased during the war by the American soldiers coming in contact with the French people. This knowledge of French which the Dunbar Township course gives should prevent the embarrassments which many of the soldiers felt should any of these students be privileged to visit France. The students of Dunbar Township High School are especially well instructed in this course, because the school has been fortunate enough to retain Ruth E. Mier as teacher of this subject. Last summer to broaden her knowledge of France and its people, Miss Mier spent eight weeks in touring France, visiting the great battlefields of the late war and visiting other places of interest. The knowledge she thus acquired at first hand makes her instruction all the more interesting to her pupils. While in France she attended the College de la Sorbonne. Among other subjects she studied phonetics, history and geography.

Tornadoes Hang Defeat On Charleroi Gridders; Score Is Very Decisive

Locals Trim Visitors by Larger Margin Than Did Brownsville.

LOSERS ARE OUTPLAYED

Eight minutes after the Tornadoes kicked off to Charleroi, the locals scored their first touchdown. Another interesting feature is that the locals made 20 first downs, to Charleroi's one. The visitors soon realized that they were up against a team of "fighting fools" and that it was impossible to get through or around the Brown and White line. Although the visitors' opposition was stiff and the Tornadoes had to fight for every inch of ground, Charleroi could not hold consistently. After a touchdown early in the first quarter, another score was made in the second quarter. Pittsmead stood on the 35-yard line and drop-kicked the ball between the goal posts, making the score 10-0.

In the last quarter the Tornadoes marched up the field by straight, hard football, got as far as Charleroi's 13-yard line and on their last down tried a goal kick which failed, giving Charleroi the ball, right in the shadows of their own goal post. Charleroi made four yards through tackle and then on the next play lost 14 yards, forcing them to kick to the Tornadoes from their own two-yard line. "Fat" Fisher, who played with the United team against the Tornadoes, was in the local backfield Saturday, and was given a chance to show what he could do. He never failed to make a gain. With the ball on the 23-yard line, Fisher added five more, was given the ball again and made two more. Then Jones made four yards and a great down. Jones again took the ball, making five yards and on the next play he went over for the second and final touchdown of the game. Groggin, former Penn State star, who played a good game at right tackle, failed to add an additional point on the placement kick. The line-up:

Tornadoes—16. Charleroi—0.

Cokers Get Ready for Dunbar Twp

An opportunity for a test of comparative strength will be given, the Connellsville High School football team when it clashes with the Dunbar Township High School eleven here on Saturday afternoon. The Scottdale High outfit, which fought to Connellsville several weeks ago, defeated the township team by a score of 38-0 earlier this season. At that time the Red and Black squad was not drilled to its present state of perfection and in spite of the added strength, the Cokers are out to enlarge the margin. Saturday will be another big day in Connellsville. It will be up to the Coker students to turn out in a body again as the Township crowd will be

KAW IS OUTSTANDING FIGURE OF GRIDIRON

Stands Out Prominently as Most Finished Player.

Cornellian in Addition to Sterling Ability at Football Has Most Alluring Way With Him—Must Be Seen to Be Appreciated.

The most outstanding figure of the gridiron of late years was George Kipp, the wonderful Notre Dame backfield man. Nobody for a year or two has stood out as he did, though Malcolm Aldrich, too, had a meteoric appeal and was a vivid figure of the Eastern arena whose place is not quite filled by anybody this fall, unless Eddie Kay, Cornell, is the man to do it. Kay, his admirers affirm, is fully as good a man back of the line as Owen of Harvard and a more colorful player. Aldrich, Mahan, Ghee, "Smackling" Louie, Coy, Barrett, Thorpe, Kilfinger, Weston, Mahan—heroic figures—these men are playing football now and one casts about to find such a one for 1922, the spectacular eye-drawing kind, who, in addition to sterling ability as a football player, has the spectacular wherewithal to take a place in the distinguished galaxy named. Partisans could argue until blue in the face the relative value of Kay and Owen, but there is about the Cornellian what there is about Rogers Hornsby—you can't think of anybody else you'd rather see play, writes W. B. Hanna, in the New York Tribune. His performance at Franklin field last year had more appeal than that of any other single player I saw. For one thing, he did a lot of successful end-running and had the help of splendid interference, but, however much of this there may have been to his work, his all-around playing on a muddy field had to be seen to appreciate what effective work a man could do under such vicious and treacherous conditions.

EXECUTE FIRST DOUBLE PLAY

Made in Game Between Old Cincinnati Red Stockings and Athletics of Brooklyn.

The first double play of which there is any record was made in a game played between the old Cincinnati Red Stockings and the Athletics of Brooklyn. The game was played June 14, 1870.

Here is how the play was accomplished: It was in the tenth inning and McDonald of the Athletics was on second. Pierce was on first, and no one was out. Smith hit a little pop fly to George Wright at short. Instead of catching the ball as the base runner had anticipated, he trapped the ball by scooping it up on the first bound, and he threw it to Waterman, who was covering third base for Cincinnati. The latter passed it to Sweasy at second and the two runners were retired. This was the game in which Cincinnati met the first defeat in the two seasons that it had been playing. In the eleventh inning Cincinnati scored two runs, but the Athletics made three in their half which gave them the game.

The elder Chase was purple with rage, yet seemed to be controlling it. The younger man looked black, sullen, impatient. Ben Chase found his voice about the time Belding halted under the trees out of earshot from the house.

"Sir, you've invited me—my son! How dare you? I want you to understand that you're—"

"Chop that kind of talk to me, you interrupted Belding. He had always been profane and now he certainly did not choose his language. Chase turned livid, gasped, and seemed about to give way to fury. But something about Belding evidently exerted a powerful quieting influence. "If you talk sense I'll listen," went on Belding.

"I want to make a last effort to propitiate you," began Chase, in his quick, smooth voice. That was a singular change to Belding—the dropping in, steadily into an easy flow of speech.

"You've had losses here, and naturally you're sore. I don't blame you. But you can't see this thing from my side of the fence. Business is business. In business the best man wins. The law upheld those transactions of mine the honesty of which you questioned. Now I want to run that main ditch along the river, through your farm. Can't we make a deal? I'm ready to be liberal—to meet you more than halfway. I'll give you an interest in the company. I think I've influence enough up at the capital to have you reinstated as inspector. A little reasonableness on your part will put you right again in Florida silver, with a chance of growing rich. There's a big future here."

"My interest, Belding, has become personal. Belding is in love with your stepdaughter. He wants to marry her. Now let's get together not only in business, but in a family way. If my son's happiness depends upon having this girl, you may rest assured I'll do all I can to get her for him. I'll absolutely make good all your losses. Now what do you say?"

"No," replied Belding. "Your money can't buy a right of way across my ranch. And Nell doesn't want your son. That settles that."

"But you could persuade her."

"I won't, that's all."

"May I ask why?" Chase's voice was losing its suave quality, but it was even swifter than before.

"Sure. I don't mind your asking," replied Belding, in slow deliberation. "I wouldn't do such a low down trick. Besides, if I would, I'd want it to be a man I was persuading for. I know Greaser—know a scoundrel. I'd rather give Nell to than your son."

Belding Chase began to roar in inarticulate rage. Belding paid no attention to him. Indeed, he never glanced at the young man. The elder Chase checked a violent start.

"My son's offer of marriage is an honor—an honor sir, than you perhaps are aware of."

Belding made no reply. He waited coldly, sure of himself.

"Mrs. Belding's daughter has no right to the name of Belding," snapped Chase. "Did you know that?"

"I did not," replied Belding, quietly. "Well, you know it now," added Chase, bitterly.

"Sure you can prove what you say," queried Belding, in the same cool, unemotional tone. It struck him strangely at the moment that little knowledge this man had of the West and of western character.

"Prove it? Why, yes, I think so enough to make the truth plain to any reasonable man. I come from Florida. I was born in the same place. I went to school with Nell Warren. That was your wife's maiden name. She was a beautiful, gay girl. I knew Bob Burton well. He was a splendid fellow, but wild. Nobody ever knew for sure, but we all supposed he was engaged to marry Nell. He left Florida, however, and soon after that the truth about Nell came out. She ran away. It was at least a couple of months before Burton showed up in Florida. He did not stay long. Then for years nothing was heard of either of them. When word did come Nell was in Oklahoma. Burton was in Denver. There's a chance of course, that Burton followed Nell and married her. That would account for Nell Warren taking the name of Burton. But it isn't likely. None of us ever heard of such a thing and wouldn't have believed it if we had. In a moment of amazement—when I recognized your wife as an old school mate—I blurted the thing out to Nell. And you see how now little it matters to me, when I ask your stepdaughter's hand in marriage for my son."

Belding stood listening. The genuine emotion in Chase's voice was as strong as the ring of truth. Belding knew truth when he heard it.

"So you told my wife you'd respect her secret—keep her dishonor from her husband and daughter?" demanded Belding, his dark gaze sweeping back from the lane.

"What? I—?" stammered Chase. "You made your son swear to be a man and keep her dishonor from her husband and daughter?"

"What?" went on Belding and his voice rang louder.

"Then Chase has no answer." The red left his face. His son slunk back against the fence.

"I say you never held this source over the heads of my wife and her daughter," thundered Belding.

He had his answer in the gray faces in the lane. Chase saw the whole truth of Mrs. Belding's agony, the reason for her departure, he saw what had been driving Nell; and it seemed that all the dogs of hell were loosed within his heart. He struck out blindly, instinctively in his pain, and the blow sent Ben Chase staggering into the fence corner. Then he stretched forth a long arm and whirled Bradford Chase back beside his father.

"And now gentlemen," went on Belding speaking low and with difficulty, seeing I've turned down your proposition, I suppose you think you've no more call to keep your mouths shut?"

The elder Chase appeared fascinated by something he either saw or felt in Belding, and his gray face grew grayer. He put up a shaking hand. Then Bradford Chase livid and snarling, burst out "I'll talk till I'm black in the face. You can't stop me."

"You'll go black in the face but it won't be from talking," hissed Belding. His big arm swept down, and when he threw it up the gun glittered in his hand. Simultaneously with the latter action pealed out a shrill penetrating whistle.

The whistle of a horse! It froze Belding's arm aloft. For an instant he could not move even his eyes. The familiarity of that whistle was terrible in its power to rob him of strength. He heard the muffled heavy pound of hoofs, and again the piercing whistle.

"Blanco Diablo!" he cried huskily. He turned to see a huge white horse come clattering into the yard. A wild gaunt, terrible horse indeed the loved Blanco Diablo. A blooded long haired Indian bestrode him. More white horses galloped into the yard, followed by a halt, whistling home. Belding saw a slim shadow of a girl who seemed all great black eyes.

"Then Nell came rushing from the house her golden hair flying. Her hands outstretched her face white as chalk. "Dick! Dick! Oh h h Dick!" she cried. Her voice seemed to quiver in Belding's heart.

Belding's eyes began to blur. Who was not sure he saw clearly. Whose face was this now close before him—a long thin slender face, haggard, frantic in its semblance of torture, all most of death? But the eyes were keen and kind.

"I shone and glad to see you all said a well remembered voice in a slow cool drawl.

"Dick! Dick! Oh h h Dick!" she cried. Her voice seemed to quiver in Belding's heart.

The BLIND MAN'S EYES

WILLIAM MACHARG
EDWIN BALMER

ONE of the strangest and most interesting mysteries ever encountered in fiction—or in real life. The story has an ingenious and thrilling plot, full of extraordinary people in extraordinary situations.

The dominating personality throughout the remarkable story is the blind lawyer, Basil Santone, who sees the world through the eyes of his daughter and Avery, his secretary. With their help he has developed a most uncanny knowledge of those with whom he comes in contact and their motives.

An amazing tale which you can read as a serial in Belding stepped into the room and Nell whispered in his ear. "This is great!"

MORE OR LESS

Camp II. For once was once addressed in a jury and was not answered by Digby S. Vance's carrying on a conversation with the wife.

Presently he lost all patience and in his best brogue said "Try Mr. S. Vance's brogue."

"My name is not S. Vance—it is Seymour," corrected Digby, whereupon Vance indignantly said "Then you see more and say less—London style."

The Big Expense
"What a vast sum! Out of my mind, I am sure you are proud of it."

"We are. But I can say it will cost a lot to put it on the loan of the limousine."

"Why? It seems to me so intricate?"

"No because we have to get the limousine it is."

At the Theatres

THE SOISSON THEATRE.

"SKIN DEEP," a Thomas H. Ince production, opening today at this theatre for a three day attraction. Milton Sills, supported by Florence Vidor and other favorite screen stars, plays the leading role. "Skin Deep" demonstrates how science, in the form of plastic surgery, completely changed the life of a master crook who became a crook largely by force of circumstances, and because people expected crookedness from him. The police and others about him counted on him being a crook because he had the really recognized crook features. He was a crook because society expected him to be one.

Without attempting to go into the interesting details of this unusual picture, it is sufficient to say that as a result of a serious injury to the crook while he was attempting to escape from the penitentiary, he fell into the hands of a skilled plastic surgeon. This wizard operated on the crook and transformed his crook type features to those of an honest man. Now this new identity effected a complete reversal in his life is told in the rest of this unusual picture.

The big value of the production lies in the fact that it does bring out in a popular manner the fact that criminals can be and are being reformed every day through the medium of this new science.

Thursday, Friday and Saturday "In the Name of the Law" will be shown.

THE PARAMOUNT.

"FORTUNES MASK," the leading attraction today and tomorrow at this theatre, presents Earle Williams in a delightful role. Action, mystery and human interest are the chief elements of this absorbing story of Central America, portrayed by Earle Williams and a capable cast in the atmosphere of a tropical republic where revolution and tyranny are daily routine, and adventures occur only by overwhelming and present administration. All the warmth and ardor of a southern romance which unfolds to the music of a guitar under a balcony and is wafted about on a perfume laden air of a tropical night. Then too, there is the plot and counterplot, the mysterious comings and goings of intriguers and above all else the human appeal of men, women and children living and breathing in their natural environs even as you and I.

Wednesday and Thursday "The Fighting Gulls," featuring William Duncan will be presented.

THE ORPHEUM.

"THE WOMAN WHO WALKED ALONE," showing today and tomorrow at this theatre, is a Paramount picture with Dorothy Dalton in the stellar role. From the merrymaking and intrigue of titled ladies in London to the thrills and rednecked action of life on the African veldt, is the scope of George Kistford's latest production. "The Woman Who Walked Alone." There is a vital theme running through this Paramount picture, making it easy to realize the character of the Countess Lombard, who after being unjustly accused by her jealous husband, decides to become the "cat that walks by itself in the wild, wet wood." The production is most colorful and there is action in abundance. Dorothy Dalton is excellent in her portrayal. A large and imposing cast supports Miss Dalton in this production. Milton Sills, leading man, Wade Hawley is her sister, Muriel, and others are E. J. Radcliffe, Mayne Kelso, Frederick Vroom, John Davidson, Harris Gordon, Charles Ogle, Mabel Van Buren, Cecil Holland, "Looty" Flynn, Temple Pigott and John Mackinnon.

Wednesday and Thursday Ethel Clayton will be seen in "For the Defense."

STATE THEATRE.

Music lovers may enjoy the treat of the season tonight when Madame Schumann-Helak appears at the State Theatre. Madame Schumann-Helak does not accept overtures from so-called "high brow" numbers and one does not have to be familiar with operatic scores to love and appreciate the magnificent voice to be heard this evening for probably the last and only time in this section. Incidentally, the program will be identical with that used by Madame Schumann-Helak Saturday evening in New York.

Assisting the diva will be Miss Florence Hademan, one of America's greatest young vocalists, and Arthur Lowrey, pianist. These two artists are making with Madame Schumann-Helak the most complete "tour" of America since the famous "farewells" of Adelina Patti. The route is similar to that laid out by Caruso for his contemplated tour, prevented by his untimely death last year. Fayette county music lovers are fortunate that Uniontown is included in the coast-to-coast itinerary.

The recital will start at 8:30 o'clock.

HOW TO FORETELL WEATHER

Simple Observation All That is Necessary to Know What the Heavens Will Furnish.

To be a good weather prophet is often a great convenience to yourself and others. Here is a simple and reliable way of telling if rain is coming during the day. As early as possible in the morning go out and search the sky for the smallest cloud that is in sight. Keep this under close observation for five minutes or so and note whether it alters in size. If the cloud gets smaller it can be almost certain of a fine day. On the other hand, if it increases in size, rain will surely come in a few hours. Where the cloud remains the same size no special change in the prevailing weather is likely to take place. If the cloud increases very rapidly thunder is almost a certainty in the summer. Alteration in the size of clouds is connected with the state of the atmosphere. When the air is very dry and rain is unlikely, the clouds soon vanish. If the atmosphere is charged with moisture, the mass of vapor increases and this will soon be discharged in the form of rain.

Danish Folk Songs Simple in Style.

The people of Denmark are not as musical as those of the other northern countries. Danish music of importance dates almost entirely from the Nineteenth century. In earlier times Denmark depended on Italian and German musicians for most of her music. Old Danish folk-music is closely related to the Swedish, as these two countries are similar in language and customs. Celtic tunes are also like those of the Danes. One no doubt, in the Danish invasion of northern Britain. Both in Ireland and Denmark the reel is a popular dance. The Danish folk-songs are simple in style and usually of a gay character. They tell of the sea, the chase and sometimes of love. The usual melancholy of Scandinavian tunes is not so noticeable here.
